☐ Water tank
☐ Water bottle
☐ Termo cup for tea and coffee
☐ Water heater JetBoil works for me
☐ Cups for tea and coffee
☐ Plates, utensilcs etc.
☐ A few sharp knifes for preparing food, cutting etc.
☐ Cutting boards
☐ Containers for food - misc sizes
☐ Large box with kitchen stuff and aeropress

Technical Camp Infrastructure

Power

If the camp provides power -- you need more than you think:

☐ Power boxes outdoor waterproof
☐ Long extension cords 25m and rolls, multiple ☐ Power cables as needed for disibution "inside" power strips with 3-5m and 10 plugs work great

Solar and DC Networking

☐ Battery and solar panel, I use Ecoflow which is easy

☐ DC Power cables as needed -- y splitter

Network equipment

Many hacker camps provide Internet connections, wired! You can often get better connectivity than a wireless network across a field, so bring:

☐ A few Long network cables 30-50m to connect to camp network

☐ A few Long network cables 10m

☐ Misc extensions and patch cables 10-15 pieces, or how many you are

☐ Table switches, smaller passively cooled ones!

☐ PoE switches and PoE PD switches

☐ Router/firewall I use a small PC Engines APU2 and Shuttle

☐ Armored fiber cables

☐ A few SFPs

My Computers and extras

- ☐ Primary laptop Razer
- ☐ Extra laptop Asus Zenbook, KEA Mac
- ☐ Tablet
- ☐ Keyboard, Mouse - and mouse pad
- ☐ Timon Kubernetes server
- ☐ Portable Monitor plus cables, HDMI, USB-C power
- ☐ Headphones/headset
- ☐ Small speaker XB30
- ☐ Books

Tent and Sleeping

Each person need a place to sleep. In bigger villages we put them around the common tent.

- ☐ Sleeping tent or caravan
- ☐ Tarps are great for both sunny day, shade and heavy rain
- ☐ Long extension cord and power strips for your tent
- ☐ Mattress, futon or inflateable
- ☐ Bed sheet
- ☐ Sleeping bag
- ☐ Pillow
